Adults as well as children are attracted to these fascinating shapes, the whirling of colours, and the many mirrors which cover the sculptures... a must see!

NATURE AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL PARK OF VULCI TOUR

Vulci... "something disquieting, something very beautiful" (Lawrence). The archaeological park of Vulci represents nature, archaeology, traditions and culture.

François' grave, the small lake of Pellicone, the temple, the fortifications and the museum of Badia's castle are the ideal place to spend a day.

The WWF oasis which borders with the nature archaeological park, awaits those who love nature. During spring and summer the ancient city comes to life with shows and events.

Tales from the stars An evening made up of legends, nature, archeology, history and observation of the sky.

The sky, with all its wonders, has always attracted and captured the imagination of men instinctively that they have identified in the representation of the divine power. In their imagination, groups of stars, apparently close to each other, took forms related to the history of man. Tales from the Stars is the way to go back and bond with the myths of the past, while remaining adherent to the explanations that science has given the appearance of the constellations.

THE CITY OF COSA

Cosa, a city founded by the Romans after the defeat of the Etruscan cities of Vulci, rose above a rocky promontory which the Tombolo di Feniglia had linked, in a distant time, to the "island" of the Argentario. At the foot of the promontory was built the port: Portus Cosanus, behind which could be found a large coastal lagoon, today called the Lake of Burano. It later became a Byzantine fortress and mediaeval castle which was called Ansedonia, from which the resort takes its name. Today it is possible to visit the ruins and the archaeological areas.

PITIGLIANO

Pitigliano - when you see Pitigliano, it's like turning the pages of a book of fairy tales set in the Middle Ages. The town is built on a promontory surrounded by bright green valleys, grooved by rivers. The town takes pride in its heritage: the Prehistoric, Roman, Medieval and Renaissance periods. Another key to the appreciation of Pitigliano is the famous Jewish ghetto. This extraordinary town has been called "Little Jerusalem" because of its large and active Jewish population which settled there at the beginning of the 15th century. Today the Synagogue is once again open to the public after extensive restoration. The town is surrounded by important archaeological sites, from the ancient vie cave to the various necropolis and primitive villages.

SOVANA TOUR

Sovana, once defined the Queen of Maremma, has been classified, together with Pitigliano, one the Most beautiful villages of Italy.

If the Etruscan presence is mainly testified by the necropolis, the charm of the historical centre is entirely medieval: its religious and civil buildings are all concentrated in a little space over a tuff rock.

SORANO TOUR

Sorano, the images that this medieval village provides for on its two sides are striking.

In fact this town has been included in the list of the 100 international sites of the World Monuments Fund.

MAGLIANO IN TOSCANA

The town, which was initially the castle of the Aldobrandeschi family and surrounded by massive walls, rises over high grounds and dominates the coastline.

Maglianos walls and its donjons overlook a countryside dotted with vineyards, olive orchards, brooms, sycamores and grain which extend all the way to the sea, where the Maestrale often blows. This area is rich in important archeological accounts regarding the social life of the great Etruscan nation.

CAPALBIO

The first small town perched on the Tuscan Maremma, right at the border with the region of Lazio, marked by the river Chiarone and the old Papal Customs.

To this day you can still take in the magical atmosphere of the farmers, hunters and brigands who lived in the town more than a century ago. Its surrounding area is strewn with interesting remains of roman villas datable to approximately the I century, such as the villa found on the low hill of Settefinestre: evocative testaments remain of the latter, such as an imposing cryptoportico and a hanging garden surrounded by remarkably crafted turrets.

PORTO ERCOLE

It is the second town in Monte Argentario, situated in the southernmost part of the promontory. Without a doubt the main tourist attractions in Porto Ercole are the fortifications dating back to the time period of the State of Garrisons.

Amongst these the most noteworthy is the Filippo Fortress, a formidable fortification which was built using the most advanced military architecture techniques to this day.

ORBETELLO

The city rises on a small peninsula surrounded by the Eastern and Western lagoons, divided by a man-made dam which, since 1841, joins them to the Promontory of Monte Argentario. The lagoons are closed off by two strips of land known as the dunes of Feniglia and Giannella which offer visitors several kilometers of lovely beaches. The remains of the polygonal walls are a testament to Etruscan presence in the area, however the town's current name is of Roman origin.

ARGENTARIO'S TOWERS AND FORTS

There are many proofs of military architecture on the Mountain Argentario, which was first dominated by the Sienese Republic and later on by the Spaniards.

The fortress of Forte Filippo, Forte Stella, La Rocca, built by the Spaniards in the sixteenth century to protect Porto Ercole.

The fortresses can be partly visited, for any information please contact: Ufficio Cultura del Comune di Monte Argentario (Cultural Department, Town Council of Mountain Argentario).

THE LAGOON AT THE TABLE

In a nineteenth century stable, the Orbetello fishermen serve tasty dishes cooked with fish freshly caught in the lagoon waters, together with the refined wines of the Costa d'Argento. Dishes based on "Bottarga di Orbetello" (Orbetello Botargo), "Filetto di cefalo affumicato" (Smoked grey mullet fillet), "Anguilla Sfumata" (Steamed eel), Sea basses, Gilthead Breams, Grey Mulletts all caught fishing with natural techniques...

THE MAREMMA CUISINE

The quality of the Maremma cuisine, simple and frugal origins in itself. "acquacotta", a dish loved by the cowherds (a soup made with onions, beetroots and tomatoes served on a slice of stale bread and a poached egg) or pappardelle with hare, or tortelli, filled with beetroot and ricotta cheese. The cuisine in the area is reason enough for a visit in the area. From a land of hunters the tastier recipes prepared with boar, hare, pheasant and beef-steaks (Maremma breed); or also fish caught or bred in the lagoon. In the medieval centres of Capalbio, and Magliano there are many occasions to taste the local cuisine, finding out that the typical restaurants have resisted well to the assault of pizzerias and fast foods.
