La Porte-Haute

An ancient medieval fortified town, Liverdun was the principal seat of the bishops of Toul and has long been known for its “art de vivre” or life-style. As you wander through the old village, which has heritage status thanks to its many historic buildings, you will see fine houses in Renaissance style and Corbin castle, built on the ramparts. Liverdun is a “Station Verte de Vacances” (green holiday resort) lying in the Moselle meander, a navigable waterways, with a vast open acces area for sport and leisure, offering sports pitches, spaces to relax, children play areas and picnic tables. Rowing, cycling, hiking (GR 5 and more), fishing (disabled acces), table tennis, beach volley-ball, pétanque ... all these are on offer in natural surroundings.
